Federal Investigation NCAC Board Discusses

By ROB MECKEL Sun Staff Writer

The recent investigation by a federal Office of Economic Opportunity inspector, selection of an executive board of directors and approval of a new program were among the major business items on the agenda of the Navarro County Action Committee during the monthly board of directors meeting Thursday night.

The 26 board members who attended the meeting at the NCAC Training Center, 200 S. 7th St., heard board chairman William J. McKie comment about the most recent developments stemming from allegations by Navarro County Commissioners that the NCAC has been involved in political activities in this county.

Sales Tax Money For 1971 Higher

Corsicana's revenue from the one per cent city sales tax for 1971 is up by $37,267.06 over 1970 with the receipt Wednesday of the check from the state comptroller covering the final quarter.

City Secretary Nelda Neal said the final quarter's check was received today in the amount of $95,972.29 to bring the year's total from the sales tax to $342,745.23.

This last quarter payment covering collections for October, November and December, was up by $5,899.53 over the 1970 last quarter.

Re-imbursements to cities by the state which handles collections for both city and state sales taxes generally runs about three months behind, accounting for Corsicana just now receiving its payment for the last three months of McKie tolá board members that the State of Texas sent an investigator, Charles Doreums, to investigate the local agency and find facts to determine whether or not NCAC is "carrying out our procedures correctly in putting people on our board." McKie said the state office has not yet told NCAC officials about results of the investigation. McKie also told board members that federal OEO investigator came to Corsicana Monday to investigate whether or not the NCAC is following official guidelines.

One matter the federal official investigated, according to McKie, was an allegation that, on one occasion, an NCAC employe had registered a resident McKie said he asked the investigator whether NCAC officials could see the report of the investigation and the investigator said they could not, but that they would hear about it. The report will be submitted to OEO officials in Washington.

The board chairman said he sees nothing wrong with helping residents register to vote, but if it is determined that an NCAC employe did this and if it is wrong, then steps will be taken not to make the same mistake again.

McKie said the investigator also came to see if NCAC is involved with the National Association for CAP (Community Action Program) Directors. "I told him frankly that I had never heard of it," McKie said.

In other business Thursday night, the board voted unanimously to approve 15 members to the executive board. This executive board will function at the request of the general board, the chairman, or the NCAC director. Executive committee members are elected for one year terms.

Persons elected as executive board members from the neighborhood areas were Lena Neal, Lucian Coy, L. V. Washington, Mrs. R. W. Davenport, and Political Rally Set for April 29

Elected as representatives of government and public institutions were 13th District Judge James C. Sewell, Curtis Jones, Leonard Tanner, and J. O.

Elected as representatives of civic and private groups were McKie, P. D. Fulwood, Mrs. Walter Hartmen, the Rev. Paul Curry, Alvin Holley, and Ed

Other action on this matter included election of Holley as assistant secretary of the executive committee.

Another agenda item presented during the hour-long meeting was the grural Community Action Agency Planning Assistance proposal which Vacek asked the board to approve.

Vacek said that in a recent meeting in Georgetown involving nine CAA's, the agencies discussed a program which would involve a "clustering" of nine CAA's in 77 counties. These CAA's are Hays-Caldwell, Bastrop, Brazos-Robertson, NCAC, Palo Pinto, Hill, Williamson-Burnet, Hill Country, and Central Texas.

Vacek said cities of over 100,000 population will not be involved in the program. It involves only the rural areas in these regions.

He said the other agencies all agreed to let NCAC operate the program, subject to approval by the NCAC board of directors. The estimated cost of setting-up and conducting the program program will be to provide consultation on problems affecting the various agencies within the cluster. The staff which will be hired to implement this program, according to Vacek, must be "well versed" in the kind of duties they will assume.

Vacek said that this program will strengthen the resources and capabilities of NCAC.

A motion by Fulwood to adopt the program was approved unanimously. Other business during the meeting concerned the General Consumers Corporation, a corporation in Corsicana owned primarily by minority group residents. Vacek said the group needs volunteer advice on managerial decisions and urged board members to assist the GCC board with whatever experience they can offer.

Another business item was presentation of an audit report for program year ending Oct. 31, 1971 which certified public accountant Phil DeFranco completed about a week ago. After the full report was distributed to board members, Tom Eady moved that the board study the report and discuss it at the next board meeting. His motion passed unanimously.

Vacek said Thursday night that he and other members of the Texas Association today meeting

Luxury Apartment Complex To Be Constructed Here

Plans for a luxury 74-unit apartment complex were announced here Thursday by two Dallas men who have formed a partnership to develop the apartments in West Corsicana between Memorial Hospital and NJC.

Morris Shwiff and Bernard Kordner, who separately own apartment complexes in Dallas and Irving totalling some 700 units announced start of the project is slated to begin within 45 days by Martex Construction Co., a firm owned by Shwiff, and hopefully will be Police Place completed by Sept. 1.

The project was announced in the Three New York Stites of Coroffice of President Zane Stites of Corsicana National Bank Thursday with completion of the purchase of a threeacre site from Erwin-Beasley Co. and associates.

The apartments will front on a new street, Miracle Dr., to be opened from W. 2nd Ave. over to W. 4th Ave., and linked to another new street to be known as Professional Dr.

It will be of colonial architecture style and has been named "The Williamsburg Apartments," the owner-developers said. It will be built around a courtyard, have a swimming pool and clubhouse. The complex will be of brick veneer, two-story in height, and include almost an equal number of efficiency, one and two-bedroom apartments.

Choice of this location for the project will make the luxury housing, which probably will range in rental from $110 for efficiency units up to $170 for twobedroom units, ideal, the partners pointed out, for professional personnel, doctors, interns and nurses of the hospital and medical clinics, administrative personnel and teachers of both the college and the high school.

"We feel cities like Corsieana have a big future as more industries come in that don't want to locate in a large city such as Dállas. We hope to meet a need for housing with this anticipated growth of Corsicana," the partners said.

They revealed that this project was originally conceived by a developer

A Corsicana man, Willie Lee Garnerway, 22, was killed late Wednesday night when he apparently stepped onto the highway into the path of an eastbound car on E. Hwy 31 just outside the city limits.

Garnerway, an employe of Tom Huston Foods, Ltd., was walking with Willie C. Smith, 18, according to investigating Highway Patrolmen Vernon Crook and Larry McCaig, when he stepped onto the roadway and was hit by a 1972 Buick driven by Ethel Starks Smith of Kerens. He was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital at 11:25 p.m.

Patrolman McCaig said the mishap was near the Ebon Stover Service Station approximately 200 feet east of the city limits, and near Garnerway's home listed at 2107 E. Hwy 31.

Investigators said Thursday the exact point of impact and which direction the pedestrian was walking, from south or north, had not been determined, but he was struck by the right headlight and quarter panel of the eastbound car.

A trophy saddle valued at $250 and a double-handful of $50 belt buckles will be up for grabs here this weekend as high school rodeo hands from throughout the state saddle up for the annual Corsicana FFA Rodeo.

275 contestants from the Golden Circle and the far-flung corners of Texas have registered for the popular three-day affair which gets underway Thursday night at the Central Texas Quarter Horse Association arena. Open to high school students only, the rodeo will run through Saturday, the competition beginning each evening at 8 p.m.

Cowboys from as far away as Abilene, Houston, El Paso, Denton and Jacksonville will join with local riders in pursuit of the valuable trophy saddle which goes to the participant garnering the highest point total in the rodeo.

The belt buckles will go to the first place winners in events such as bull riding, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, ribbon roping, chute dogging, steer saddling, girls' cloverleaf barrel racing and team roping.

Adding to the luster of the rodeo will be the coronation Saturday night of the Rodeo Queen. 10 Corsicana girls are entered in the competition for the title. No rodeo can be put on without of-

Rodeo producer Bob Jenkins of Seymour is providing the bucking stock for the rodeo, said to be some of the best ever used in the FFA show.

Corsicana, Dawson and Powell. Navarro County's 1970 population census was 31,150. According to figures made available by the North Central Texas Council of Governments, 70 per cent of that total is of voting age, roughly 21,805 residents.

Current registrations mean that about 58 per cent of the eligible voting population has registered, a figure that actually is considered high on the state average. The Secretary of State's office released figures recently showing statewide registrations at 48 per cent, far below the approximate two-thirds which normally registers.

Newly-enfranchised voters between 18 and 21 have made a fair showing at the registration counter, a total of 623 having signed cards.

The registration totals as of March 3 by precinct in Navarro County are as follows:

Legal Grass?

After the marijuana raid conducted a week ago, Sheriff Department officials in Freestone County have started cultivating some grass of their own. These plants outside the Sheriff's office will be used for evidence when the trial begins. Meanwhile, county law enforcement officials are still finding more marijuana plants in the woods on the land east of Dew. Also, those who might be interested should take heed that both locations, the original site of the marijuana and the Sheriff's evidence, are being watched closely.
